

We make it work, you make it magic

Livery offers marketers, educators, video specialists, engineers and creative professionals ready-to-use technology to power large scale live events, gamification, learning and live video commerce.

Our value proposition is based on high quality, low price, low latency live-streaming-as-a-service, combined with unique, integrated and expandable interactivity.

As the use of video in general and live streaming in particular is exploding across industries, Livery aims to lower barriers for interactive live streaming to professional video content creators, owners and distributors. Growing adoption of 5G, metaverse and live retail technology further accelerate this.

Our objective is to help customers create and improve apps and sites with interactive video technology that's engaging, enjoyable and creating value. We help our customers making live events bigger and more profitable.

We also work with channel partners to support customers that can't do this in house. By taking away as many barriers as possible, we expect exponential growth for our customers, partners and ourselves.

More information on www.liveryvideo.com

For questions, please contact info@liveryvideo.com

